

IRR Web Diagram Activity: Use the example below to guide you as you complete a web diagram for your Individual Research Report. The results should assist you in creating an outline for your rough draft of the IRR.

Instructions: Create your own web diagram for your Individual Research Report on your own paper. Write out your group research question in the center box. From the center box create a web diagram which identifies at least two perspectives on the issue and the sources/evidence which support the perspective along with the connections among the sources. You may use bullet points and/or keywords to fill out the diagram. Your web diagram may include additional boxes if you need to add more information.
